

I am saddened to discover that the FCC has just relaxed media regulations. By doing so, you have just stepped closer to the Orwell society that we all dread of. The ol' mighty dollar speaks loudly, and it screams inside the FCC (with all of corporate sponsored trips you have accepted to Vegas, NYC and New Orleans, why wouldn't you relax the rules?)

A democracy is for the people, not corporations. You have forgotten that. Shame on you. You should be embarrassed, especially with both parties against relaxing regulations.

I find your argument weak that there are several methods of receiving news, focusing on the Internet. Considering that millions do not access the Internet and many do not even have a computer.

Disgraceful.
